

A modern approach

Cartrefi Conwy, the newest housing association, have recently appointed the first of what they hope to be many modern apprentice posts.

Nicola Collins has accepted the post of Modern Apprentice – Administration within the Governance section at Cartrefi Conwy’s Head Office in Colwyn Bay. Her duties will be varied and included covering reception, helping with the administration of the Board, other office based duties whilst learning about the governance and management of the organisation.

Whilst gaining experience in the workplace, Nicola will also be studying towards a NVQ in Business Administration as part of the work based learning programme.

Nicola, who lives in Llandudno, said, “I was delighted to get this post. It is not very often that opportunities like this come along”.

Andrew Bowden, Chief Executive, said “It is posts such as this one which go a long way to show that Cartrefi Conwy is committed to providing opportunities locally. I hope that this will be the first of many similar kinds of posts that our organisation is able to offer to the local community”.

From 2009, job opportunities at Cartrefi Conwy will be shown on our website at <http://www.cartreficonwy.org/cartrefi/jobs.php>.

PHOTO: Nicola Collins, Modern Apprentice & Andrew Bowden, Chief Executive